Subject Index

ADVERTISING

Abstract Number

12 Experimental comparison of persuasive print messages involving occupations, sex roles, and motivational attributes designed by advertising copywriters with and without the aid of computerized cognitive mapping. Lynn Martin Haskins, Ph.D., Temple University.

15 An application of Helson's Adaptation-Level Theory to the problem of context in television advertising. Robert Walter Johnson, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

81 Thirty years of advertising council public service announcements. Hsiao-Tun Chen, M.A., University of Georgia.

87 The effects of advocacy advertising and situational crisis on perceptions of social responsibility, potential supportive behavior and attitudes toward advertisements. Jean Golino Cozby, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

102 Political television commercials: A survey of Alachua County residents' expectations and opinions. Martin R. Fig, M.A., University of Florida.

131 Celebrity endorsement of direct mail advertising: an experiment. Harold Duane Hart, M.A., University of Texas.

178 The 1963 integrated advertising dilemma: an extended view. Charles G. McArthur, M.A., University of Florida.

182 A descriptive model of creative decision making in advertising agencies. Marcia Mondroski, M.A., University of Georgia.

183 Attorney advertising in Louisiana. Colleen Caryl Moore, M.J., Louisiana State University.

229 Media, marketing, and communications: a balanced approach to advertising evaluations. James Simon, M.S., University of Kansas.

See also Abstracts 45, 161, 167, 218, 225

AUDIENCE ANALYSIS

Abstract Number

33 Selecting a source of local television news in the Salt Lake City SMSA: A multivariate analysis of cognitive and affective factors for 384 randomly-selected newscast viewers. Conrad Glenn Page Smith, Ph.D., Temple University.

Abstract Number

57 Relationships between press coverage, community voter turnout and election results in school board elections in Wisconsin, 1979. Mary Behrendt, M.A., University of Wisconsin

70 A comparison of media use by leaders and non-leaders in a rural community in the mid-south: a case study of Oxford, MS. Paul Brooks, M.A., University of Mississippi.

72 The inverted pyramid: primacy in story structure and its role in agenda-setting. Francis A. Buhrman, Jr., M.A., University of North Carolina.

138 Declining circulation of a weekly newspaper: a case study. Paul John Holley, M.S., Iowa State University.

164 An attitude segmentation study of the youth market's perception of the ideal newspaper. Eileen Lehnert, M.A., Michigan State University.

175 Correlates of print media exposure. Linda Harvill Martin, M.A., University of Maryland.

217 Family communication patterns, television, and adolescent sex-role development. Bernadette Rossi, M.A., University of North Carolina.

250 An analysis of the viewing audience of religious television programs and of the television viewing preferences of religious individuals. Donald W. Umphrey, M.A., Texas Tech University.

257 The effects of androgynous televised portrayals on children's sex-role preferences. Kathryn Perdew White, M.A., University of North Carolina.

See also Abstracts 2, 3, 6, 11, 16, 45, 49, 52, 59, 61, 76, 83, 89, 92, 102, 116, 130, 131, 134, 135, 152, 155, 158, 159, 161, 169, 195, 196, 208, 221, 231, 238, 259, 266

COMMUNICATION & NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Abstract Number

24 Mass media uses in a developing society: an empirical study of the gratifications sought from television by West Indian adolescents. Syed Husain Pasha, Ph.D., University of Wisconsin.

157 Mass communication and national development in China: a structural-functional analysis. Charles Mingyan Koo, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

202 Samizdat: the case for cultural continuity in the Soviet Union. Dawn Elaine Plumb, M.A., University of Washington.

See also Abstracts 5, 10, 13, 32, 83, 121, 143

Subject Index

ADVERTISING

Abstract Number

12 Experimental comparison of persuasive print messages involving occupations, sex roles, and motivational attributes designed by advertising copywriters with and without the aid of computerized cognitive mapping. Lynn Martin Haskins, Ph.D., Temple University.

15 An application of Helson's Adaptation-Level Theory to the problem of context in television advertising. Robert Walter Johnson, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

81 Thirty years of advertising council public service announcements. Hsiao-Tun Chen, M.A., University of Georgia.

87 The effects of advocacy advertising and situational crisis on perceptions of social responsibility, potential supportive behavior and attitudes toward advertisements. Jean Golino Cozby, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

102 Political television commercials: A survey of Alachua County residents' expectations and opinions. Martin R. Fig, M.A., University of Florida.

131 Celebrity endorsement of direct mail advertising: an experiment. Harold Duane Hart, M.A., University of Texas.

178 The 1963 integrated advertising dilemma: an extended view. Charles G. McArthur, M.A., University of Florida.

182 A descriptive model of creative decision making in advertising agencies. Marcia Mondroski, M.A., University of Georgia.

183 Attorney advertising in Louisiana. Colleen Caryl Moore, M.J., Louisiana State University.

229 Media, marketing, and communications: a balanced approach to advertising evaluations. James Simon, M.S., University of Kansas.

See also Abstracts 45, 161, 167, 218, 225

AUDIENCE ANALYSIS

Abstract Number

33 Selecting a source of local television news in the Salt Lake City SMSA: A multivariate analysis of cognitive and affective factors for 384 randomly-selected newscast viewers. Conrad Glenn Page Smith, Ph.D., Temple University.

Abstract Number

57 Relationships between press coverage, community voter turnout and election results in school board elections in Wisconsin, 1979. Mary Behrendt, M.A., University of Wisconsin

70 A comparison of media use by leaders and non-leaders in a rural community in the mid-south: a case study of Oxford, MS. Paul Brooks, M.A., University of Mississippi.

72 The inverted pyramid: primacy in story structure and its role in agenda-setting. Francis A. Buhrman, Jr., M.A., University of North Carolina.

138 Declining circulation of a weekly newspaper: a case study. Paul John Holley, M.S., Iowa State University.

164 An attitude segmentation study of the youth market's perception of the ideal newspaper. Eileen Lehnert, M.A., Michigan State University.

175 Correlates of print media exposure. Linda Harvill Martin, M.A., University of Maryland.

217 Family communication patterns, television, and adolescent sex-role development. Bernadette Rossi, M.A., University of North Carolina.

250 An analysis of the viewing audience of religious television programs and of the television viewing preferences of religious individuals. Donald W. Umphrey, M.A., Texas Tech University.

257 The effects of androgynous televised portrayals on children's sex-role preferences. Kathryn Perdew White, M.A., University of North Carolina.

See also Abstracts 2, 3, 6, 11, 16, 45, 49, 52, 59, 61, 76, 83, 89, 92, 102, 116, 130, 131, 134, 135, 152, 155, 158, 159, 161, 169, 195, 196, 208, 221, 231, 238, 259, 266

COMMUNICATION & NATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Abstract Number

24 Mass media uses in a developing society: an empirical study of the gratifications sought from television by West Indian adolescents. Syed Husain Pasha, Ph.D., University of Wisconsin.

157 Mass communication and national development in China: a structural-functional analysis. Charles Mingyan Koo, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

202 Samizdat: the case for cultural continuity in the Soviet Union. Dawn Elaine Plumb, M.A., University of Washington.

See also Abstracts 5, 10, 13, 32, 83, 121, 143

COMMUNICATION THEORY, PROCESS & EFFECTS

Abstract Number

2 A test of race versus situational movement state in predicting information seeking and use. Rita Ann Atwood, Ph.D., University of Washington.

8 Understanding, communication, and cognitive homeostasis. Kycko Hisaka Edwards, Ph.D., University of Washington.

9 Communication in economic and social development: the basis for a new paradigm. Vijaya Krishna Ganju, Ph.D., University of Texas.

16 Coorientation in resource management: a strategy for assessing communication and consensus between a complex organization and its clientele. Jerome Joseph Karbon, Ph.D., University of Wisconsin.

31 Communication technologies and society: causality and intervention. Jennifer Daryl Slack, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

38 Differential media-public agenda-setting effects for selected issues, 1948-1976. James Patrick Winter, Ph.D., Syracuse University.

74 The influence of Marshall McLuhan on mass communication theory. George Thomas Burton, M.J., Louisiana State University.

96 Understandings gained in the doctor-patient interaction: a test of different predictors. Nancy E. Dudley, M.A., University of Washington.

112 A re-examination of the agenda-setting function of the 1976 debates. Stephen M. Gadziala, M.A., The Ohio State University.

116 An exploratory investigation of childrens' selection and uses of television programs: a developmental approach. Waithira L. Gikonyo, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

130 Employee perceptions of credibility of messages attributed to sources internal and external to the organization. Nancy Kochuk Harris, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

166 The evaluative component of the Fishbein Attitude Model as an indicator of the relative preference and relative importance of attributes for planning communication programs. Ruth Lewkowicz, M.A., University of Florida.

195 Social and psychological predispositions as predictors of adoption of household energy conservation practices. Benedict Chinedo Ogwezi, M.S., Iowa State University.

222 Coorientation between scientists and extension agents in developing farm technology: a Malaysian study. Sofian Mohd. Salleh, M.S., University of Wisconsin.

Abstract Number

248 Communication behavior of linking agents in the Maryland cooperative extension service. Deborah Marion Turner, M.A., University of Maryland.

258 The communication behavior of poultry farmers residing in the eastern shore counties of Maryland. Terry Joe White, M.A., University of Maryland.

See also Abstracts 10, 11, 12, 15, 22, 24, 36, 47, 55, 62, 109, 122, 147, 157, 161, 164, 191, 208, 229, 251

COMMUNICATOR ANALYSIS

Abstract Number

25 The newswriting process: a protocol analysis case study of three practicing journalists. Beverley Joyce Miller Pitts, Ed.D., Ball State University.

26 Looking at the world through foreign eyes. Daniel Riffe, Ph.D., University of Tennessee.

67 A study of the selection of syndicated features for use in daily newspapers of Georgia and contiguous states. Gregory Horace Breazeale, M.A., University of Georgia.

171 The nature of news: effects of added levels of conflict and prominence. Allen Lucas Ludeman, M.A., Oklahoma State University.

209 Academic engineers and science writers: a survey of attitudes and experiences. Barbara E. Rasmussen, M.S., West Virginia University.

238 Credibility of male and female reporters: differences in readers' perceptions. Glenda L. Sweger, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

251 Left-right hemisphere research and its implications for journalism--a field survey. Bonnie Ann Vannatta, M.S., University of Tennessee.

254 The nature, amount, and mechanics of communication between the regional editor and bureau reporters: a case study of the Times Herald newspaper in Port Huron, Michigan. Nancy C. Wagner, M.A., Central Michigan University.

See also Abstracts 7, 12, 18, 22, 23, 40, 54, 58, 71, 72, 99, 122, 136, 149, 173, 177, 179, 181, 200, 211, 212, 213, 234, 241, 244, 268, 269

COMMUNITY JOURNALISM

Abstract Number

6 Community orientation and newspaper reading: a comparative study of the community press in urban and suburban areas. Robin Elizabeth Cobbey, Ph.D., Syracuse University.

Abstract
Number

153 A profile of Georgia weekly newspapers. Dan W. Kitchens, M.A., University of South Carolina.

201 Availability and use of lawyers and legal help on news-editorial matters by Florida's non-daily press. Jack P. Pizzolato, Jr., M.A., University of Florida.

236 The status of photojournalism in suburban newspapers. Julian Kaskell Solmonson, III, M.A., University of Nevada-Reno.

See also Abstracts 42, 66, 86, 101, 148, 160, 176, 237, 240

CONTENT ANALYSIS

Abstract
Number

40 A content analysis of the disciplinary encounters described in the newspaper advice column "Dear Abby". Harry L. Allen, M.A., University of Florida.

53 The influence of television on press coverage of the presidency. Deborah L. Bay, M.A., University of Texas.

54 The 1980 United States Olympic Boycott: an analysis of selected sports columns. Michelle Nan Beachly, M.A., University of Kansas.

66 A content analysis of the 1979 Louisiana Governor's race as covered by community newspapers. John E. Braithwaite, Jr., M.J., Louisiana State University.

99 A content analysis of the women's pages of five Missouri newspapers. Ann Elwell, M.A., Central Missouri State University.

168 A comparison of environmental news content between the Daily Oklahoman and the Tulsa World. Gary Edwin Loeffler, M.S., Oklahoma State University.

184 Iranian news in two elites: New York Times and Le Monde, 1977-79. Rosalyn Rolon Morgan, M.A., University of Missouri.

200 Science news coverage in ten major dailies. Melissa Lynn Pitts, M.A., University of Texas.

246 Mexican-American news in the San Jose Mercury News: a content analysis. Stan Tulledo, M.S., San Jose State University.

101 Content analysis of local news in six selected country weeklies in a period from 1830 to 1883 prior to and following the advent of the railroad. Ruth Ewoldt, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

See also Abstracts 44, 48, 50, 75, 91, 117, 125, 132, 146, 151, 172, 190, 197, 203, 206, 207, 210, 213, 216, 230, 239, 247, 259, 260

COURTS & LAW OF THE PRESS (MEDIA)

Abstract
Number

7 Newsmaking in the trial courts: newspaper reporters and sources in courts of original jurisdiction. Robert Edward Drechsel, Ph.D., University of Minnesota.

17 Justice William O. Douglas on freedom of the press. Harry L. Kennedy, Jr., Ph.D., Ohio University.

30 The evolution of the invasion of privacy tort and its newsworthiness limitations. Sallie Martin Sharp, Ph.D., University of Texas.

51 Newsworthiness and the public disclosure tort. Anne M. Bartol, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

73 Pretrial hearing closure standards established by the state and federal Appellate Courts since Gannett Co. v. dePasquale. Mary Bulterman, M.A., University of North Carolina.

115 An historical study of the development and adjudication of the shield law in California, 1895-1980. Benedict Gbondo, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

117 Crime reporting and prejudicial publicity. Patricia Jean Glein, M.A., University of Washington.

118 The breach of the peace provision in nineteenth century state criminal libel law. Elizabeth Lambert Goepel, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

167 Commercial speech and the First Amendment: a historical inquiry. Melinda Sue Lockett-John, M.A., University of Washington.

215 The balancing process: constitutional and reputational interests in defamation law. Robert Thomas Rini, M.A., Michigan State University.

255 The South Dakota open meetings law: a question of access for South Dakota journalists. John P. Walsh, M.A., University of South Dakota.

See also Abstracts 19, 113, 201

CRITICISM & DEFENSE OF THE PRESS (MEDIA)

Abstract
Number

1 Bricks without straw: the mirage of competition in the desert of Phoenix daily journalism since 1947. Fenwick Anderson, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

71 Attitudes of city councilmen of Texas on the social responsibility theory of the press. Thomas Addison Buckner, III, M.A., University of Texas.

Abstract
Number

109 A study of the readability of the Des Moines Register as measured by the Flesch Reading Ease Formula. Christine Goff Friesleben, M.S., Iowa State University.

124 The New York Times' coverage of the 1974 Cyprus Crisis, July 16 - July 26, 1974. Maria Constantinou Hadjipavlou, M.A., University of Kansas.

185 The Wisconsin daily press and news of the Soviet Union. John C. Myers, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

212 Attitudes and portrayals in the mass media regarding disabled persons. Gary N. Reese, M.A., University of Texas.

See also Abstracts 17, 18, 27, 42, 137, 207, 214, 230

CROSS-NATIONAL STUDIES

Abstract
Number

11 A methodological approach to the study of national images: perceptions of modern and traditional China and Japan. Edward Payson Hall, Jr., Ph.D., University of Washington.

46 A comparison of the reporting of international news in two Algerian and two United States daily newspapers. Abderrahmane Azzi, M.A., North Texas State University.

139 International students in the United States: media use and sojourn length as factors in acculturation. Janice Cheng-Hsing Hsia, M.A., California State University-Fresno.

152 A survey of British television viewers' attitudes toward and usage of American television programs. Cheryl Brantly Kingham, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

191 Communication behavior and information use in expected occupational roles: a comparison of U.S. and foreign graduate students. Michael Sanford Nilan, M.A., University of Washington.

203 A descriptive analysis of the integrative functions of easy Hebrew media as used by North American new immigrants living in Israel. Linda Polachek, M.A., Temple University.

220 Sources of home news for international students in the United States. Hassan Saeedi, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

231 A survey of perceptions of violence in American TV programs by Asian students in two Hong Kong universities. Marie Siu, M.S.M.C., Arkansas State University.

239 Information flow from Japan to South Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong. Han Ching Tang, M.A., University of Washington.

See also Abstracts 26, 83, 124, 141, 184, 185, 224, 228

EDITORIAL POLICY & METHODS

Abstract
Number

42 Editorial response by selected American newspapers to the American agriculture movement tractorcade, 1979. Lynn Barbara Anderson, M.S., University of Kansas.

89 A method of planning innovative newspaper contents. Robert W. Dardenne, Jr., M.A., University of Florida.

213 Chicago Tribune editorials: an analysis of the opinion of Robert McCormick, Don Maxwell, and Clayton Kirkpatrick. Carlton M. Rhodes, M.A., University of Mississippi.

See also Abstracts 41, 44, 48, 60, 67, 72, 99, 104, 109, 124, 138, 171, 184, 185, 200, 254

EDUCATION FOR JOURNALISM

Abstract
Number

19 Treatment in selected high journalism textbooks of the First Amendment as it related to the rights of students to express themselves in print. David L. Knott, Ed.D., University of Toledo.

63 The efficacy of public relations education: what the Texas public relations professional perceives. Scott Lee Bobo, M.A., University of Texas.

108 A typology of high school student newspapers. Mary A. Freund, M.A., Northern Illinois University.

113 Legal and ethical judgments of high school newspaper advisers on First Amendment rights. Alice Lois Gagnard, M.J., Louisiana State University.

119 Development of a technical writing workshop. Sherry A. Golz, M.S., University of Wisconsin.

122 Communication apprehension as it exists in a tri-curriculum school of journalism. Suzanne Marie Haase, M.J., Louisiana State University.

135 The calendar-setting agenda: a study of the uses and gratifications of a college newspaper. Kathryn Marie Henkins, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

144 Procedures, problems, and philosophies in American junior college newspapers: a national survey. Pamela A. Jagel, M.A., Kent State University.

156 The Interscholastic League press conference: a history, 1924-1980. Susan White Komandosky, M.J., North Texas State University.

Abstract
Number

165 The status of typographic education in U.S. schools of journalism. Diane E. Lewis, M.A., University of Texas.

186 A multi-media presentation versus a traditional lecture with visuals in teaching remedial grammar. Lynn M. Nakashian, M.S., West Virginia University.

198 Public relations internships: a study of professional and academic attitudes. Gregory David Paxton, M.S., West Virginia University.

225 Advertising education as perceived by advertising agency practitioners. Gretchen Singleton Schmitt, M.S., University of Kansas.

226 The status of screen education in middle schools and high schools in the state of Georgia. Judy Seaman, M.A., University of Georgia.

242 An evaluation of affirmative action in the employment and promotion of female and minority faculty in collegiate schools/departments of journalism. J. Dale Thorn, M.J., Louisiana State University.

265 Michigan class A high school newspaper practices and policies. Mary E. Wutka, M.A., Central Michigan University.

See also Abstracts 14, 74, 120, 136, 191, 211, 214, 264

FOREIGN PRESS & INTERNATIONAL COMM

Abstract
Number

5 Media growth and urbanization in developing countries. Ming-Fang Chang, Ph.D., University of Wisconsin.

10 Development support communication and the role of the communication specialist: a perspective from a project in Ghana. Gary Richard Gleason, Ph.D., University of Iowa.

13 The West African Pilot and the movement for Nigerian nationalism, 1937-1960. Samuel Okafor Idemili, Ph.D., University of Wisconsin.

22 Nigerian journalists: a study of their demographic characteristics and professional orientation. Nwabu N. Mgbemena, Ph.D., University of Texas.

23 The Soviet journalist: a cultural analysis. Rilla Dean Mills, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

35 Producers' expressed participation in program decision making and organizational commitment in Nigerian radio and television stations. O'Kevbe Adidi Uyo, Ph.D., Syracuse University.

Abstract
Number

127 Freedom of information in Iceland in view of constitutional and legal limits on freedom of expression. Problems of access and legislative efforts. Halldor Halldorsson, M.A., University of North Carolina.

151 Development of Korean television and the use of foreign tv programs. Hye-Ra Kim, M.A., University of Maryland.

170 "Walking Blindfolded Through a Minefield": South Africa's press under siege. Kenneth Richard Lord, M.A., University of Utah.

172 An analysis of the television coverage of the Iranian/American crisis situation. Mina Majidian, M.S., University of Utah.

263 An historical development of the role and function of broadcasting in Liberia. Edward Lama Wonkeryor, M.M.C., University of South Carolina.

266 A survey of selected Chinese students in the United States to determine how they receive hometown news. Joe Tsi Yang, M.A., North Texas State University.

See also Abstracts 24, 26, 46, 68, 80, 152, 202, 203, 220, 222, 239, 245

GOVERNMENT & THE PRESS (MEDIA)

Abstract
Number

44 Four communication problems concerning the constitutional liberalism of Senator Wayne Morse. Robert Clair Armstrong, M.A., University of Washington.

92 Media, community, and juvenile services administration views of juvenile crime and juvenile delinquency: a comparative analysis. Terri Sue Diener, M.A., University of Maryland.

See also Abstracts 28, 50, 53, 56, 57, 65, 66, 77, 93, 106, 112, 118, 125, 127, 167, 170, 188, 194, 199, 202, 219, 235, 256

HISTORY & BIOGRAPHY

Abstract
Number

3 A history of broadcast audience research in the United States, 1920-1980, with an emphasis on the rating services. Mark James Banks, Ph.D., University of Tennessee.

18 A siege of the citadels: access of woman suffrage ideas to the Oregon press, 1884-1912. Lauren Jeanne Kessler, Ph.D., University of Washington.

20 The role of William Cobbett in Philadelphia's party press, 1794-1799. Karen K. List, Ph.D., University of Wisconsin.

Abstract Number

21 Elias Boudinot, Cherokee editor: the father of American Indian journalism. Barbara Francine Luebke, Ph.D., University of Missouri.

27 A study of Frank C. Laubach's methods of communicating a concern for adult literacy education to the people of the United States. Willard Arthur Scofield, Ph.D., Syracuse University.

28 The origins and development of public radio in Tennessee, 1949-1980. Donald Scroggins, Ph.D., University of Tennessee.

32 The party press: the newspaper role in national politics, 1789-1816. William David Sloan, Ph.D., University of Texas.

34 History of black-oriented radio in Chicago, 1929-1963. Norman W. Spaulding, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

39 The Stars and Stripes: a study of World War I propaganda techniques. Michael R. Acton, M.S., University of Kansas.

50 The coming of the war for independence and the South Carolina press: an examination of printers' attitudes and a content assessment of their papers, 1765-1770. James Wesley Baker, M.A., University of South Carolina.

60 PM: the experimental tabloid that failed. Kris D. Bicknell, M.A., University of Texas.

68 Carlos P. Romulo: Philippine journalist, soldier, and statesman. Rebecca Vallette Bright, M.S., University of Kansas.

80 A descriptive and historical study of the Gaceta De Mexico (1722, 1728 through 1742). Ines Dominique Chancrin, M.A., University of Georgia.

110 The Great Speckled Bird: an investigation of the birth, life, and death of an underground newspaper. Patrick K. Frye, M.A., University of Georgia.

128 The press as a historical resource. James Wesley Hammond, Jr., M.A., University of Nevada-Reno.

142 Biography of Maude Hulbert Horn, editor of the Georgetown (California) Gazette, 1891-1924. Nora Beale Jacob, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

143 Ku Klux Klan treatment of Roman Catholics as expressed in two Michigan Klan publications during the 1920s. Joanne R. Jacobs, M.A., Central Michigan University.

148 Paddocl Publications and the northwest suburban region of Chicago: a Post-World War II analysis. Charles M. Jonak, M.A., Northern Illinois University.

Abstract Number

149 . . . and Peggy Hull was there. David Len Jones, M.A., University of Texas.

150 Visions of victory: Connecticut press coverage of the revolution, 1777-1778. Kay R. Keppler, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

154 An oral history of Dorothy Buggum Chandler. Anita J. Klaz, M.A., California State University-Northridge.

160 J. D. Holmes of the Associated Press: a biography. Pamela Patrick Langley, M.A., University of Montana.

163 A pictorial history of photography in the Missoula, Montana, Missoulian, from 1873 to the beginning of World War II. David L. Lee, M.A., University of Montana.

176 A survey of the newspapers published in Grenada, Mississippi, from 1835-1980. Claudia Martino, M.A., University of Mississippi.

179 Margaret Bourke-White in Russia: 1930-1932 the effect of that experience on here life and work. Michael William McClellan, M.A., Syracuse University.

181 The American Newspaper Guild in Ohio, 1933-1938: forefront of a national movement. Roger J. Mezger, M.A., Kent State University.

194 The Gentleman's Journal For The War: an analysis of purpose. William J. O'Connell, M.S., West Virginia University.

214 James Agee: the journalist-critic as creative artist. Nancy Jane Richards, M.S., University of Kansas.

223 Ernst Haas. Amla Dhirajlal Sanghvi, M.A., Syracuse University.

233 Trekking the starbeams: Bill Vaughan at the Kansas City Star. James V. Smith, Jr., M.A., University of Kansas.

237 A case study of The Planet and the alternative newsweekly press. Thompson E. Storey, M.S., Iowa State University.

240 The Pacific Daily News: the small town newspaper covering a vast frontier. Jacqueline Korona Teare, M.A., Michigan State University.

256 U.S. presidential press secretaries, in the Truman-Carter years. Chia-Hua Wang, M.A., University of Missouri.

261 W.E.B. Du Bois: journalist-reformer, a study of his transition from a liberal reformer to a communist. Arnold B. Williams, Jr., M.S., University of Kansas.

Abstract
Number

264 The foundation years of American journalism education, 1908-1930. Janice R. Wood, M.A., University of South Carolina.

See also Abstracts 1, 7, 13, 17, 37, 44, 56, 31, 97, 101, 104, 106, 115, 153, 155, 206, 210, 255, 262, 263

INDUSTRIAL JOURNALISM

Abstract
Number

221 A readership study of a national trade association newsletter. Edward Paul Salek, M.A., Northern Illinois University.

See also Abstracts 228, 243, 248

MAGAZINES

Abstract
Number

61 A survey of Wisconsin natural resources magazine subscribers. Kathryn Gebhardt Blackfield, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

91 The response of a resource periodical to the environmental movement: a content analysis of American Forests, 1970-1978. Carol A. DeWolf, M.S., University of Wisconsin.

121 The Next Whole Earth Catalog as a transitional device into Alvin Toffler's Third Wave future through its use as an example of Ivan Illich's convivial tool. Michael Guess, M.A., University of Texas.

136 A comparison of the editorial practices of religious magazines with editorial practices described in magazine textbooks. Jeff Hensley, M.A., North Texas State University.

146 Violence against women in five erotic magazines. Barbara L. Jatkola, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

159 The effects of white space on attention value in magazine readership. Kathleen M. Kuhn, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

197 Newsweek magazine and presidential stereotypes. James Howard Patterson, M.A., University of Georgia.

207 A critical history of American rock journalism in popular magazines--1955-1976. David Paul Proctor, M.S., University of Utah.

210 A descriptive comparison of the war-related content of Good Housekeeping during World War I and World War II. Cora Corkill Ray, M.S., University of Kansas.

Abstract
Number

216 National Geographic Magazine: a content analysis of the photography of selected issues from 1919 to 1978. Magne Anders Roe, M.A., University of Minnesota.

219 A study of the United States Army Aviation Digest: its history, content, format, and layout. Dennis Michael Ryan, M.S., University of Kansas.

243 Skyborn magazines: a survey of U.S. airline in-flight editors and airline officials. Laurie Tranter, M.S., University of Tennessee.

259 Sex-role stereotyping in the contents of four magazines for children. Melinda J. Whitney, M.A., University of Nevada-Reno.

See also Abstracts 54, 75, 82, 97, 100, 126, 178, 194, 206, 237, 247

MEDIA MANAGEMENT & PRODUCTION

Abstract
Number

41 The urban afternoon newspaper: a threatened species. Benjamin Jordan Anderson, Jr., M.A., University of Florida.

86 An analysis of management principles for small daily and weekly newspapers. Robert C. Coughlin, M.S., Iowa State University.

193 Profile of an industry: the marketing of religious books to general bookstores. Kathleen Strutt Noling, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

252 The tabloid: a study of image versus cost. Jack C. Ventimiglia, M.A., Central Missouri State University.

See also Abstracts 1, 14, 26, 35, 37, 49, 52, 58, 60, 65, 77, 79, 138, 153, 158, 177, 236, 254, 267, 268

MISCELLANEOUS

Abstract
Number

111 Clinical cancer research. Mara Ellen Gabriel, M.A., University of North Carolina.

123 Heart disease and diet: parents' habits, attitudes, knowledge and sources of information. Robin Hergott Haber, M.S., University of Wisconsin.

180 Women in the North Carolina general assembly. Harriet H. McLeod, M.A., University of North Carolina.

253 Hazardous materials transportation by rail in Laurens County, South Carolina. John R. Versteeg, M.A., University of North Carolina.

PERSONNEL & LABOR RELATIONS

Abstract Number

174 The newspaper guild: its membership responds to the proposed merger with the International Typographical Union. E. Mayer Maloney, Jr., M.A., University of Florida.

262 Unions in broadcasting: AFTRA, SAG, NABET. Maria A. Williams, M.A., Central Missouri State University.

See also Abstracts 177, 181, 169

PICTORIAL JOURNALISM

Abstract Number

62 Effects of newsphotos upon newspaper reader behavior. Charles William Bluman, M.A., Kent State University.

75 Photographic representation of Asian Americans in Time and Newsweek magazines. Cynthia Kay Buyck, M.A., University of Minnesota.

82 The contributions of Stefan Lorant to photojournalism. Sharon Robertson Chickering, M.A., University of Georgia.

97 The Detroit workshop, 1949-1951: Robert Drew and the Life photojournalism essay formula. Caroline Dow Dykhouse, M.A., Michigan State University.

See also Abstracts 162, 163, 179, 189, 223, 236

PUBLIC OPINION & PROPAGANDA

Abstract Number

107 Political persuasion and a social issue: an analysis of the "clean indoor air act of 1978". John D. Fraser, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

245 China's propaganda in the United States during World War II. Kuo-Jen Tsang, M.A., North Texas State University.

See also Abstracts 39, 54

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Abstract Number

59 A readership survey of the Junior News. Wendy Bettar, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

69 The use of architecture as a public relations tool in ten United States companies. Jo Ann Brinkman, M.A., Northern Illinois.

79 Report booklet: Morgantown-area "All West Virginia City" program. James Allen Carte, M.S., West Virginia University.

Abstract Number

85 Developing promotion for volunteerism in West Virginia. Jacqueline Hamill Cordray, M.S., West Virginia University.

88 The Midland nuclear plant: a PR case study. Ronald E. Crane, M.A., Central Michigan University.

93 The second armored division's public affairs office: its operation and organization. Robert T. Donnelly, M.A., North Texas State University.

94 The impact of public relations on fund raising: a case study of Lutheran social services of Illinois. Nancy Santacaterina Donohoe, M.A., Northern Illinois University.

98 A study of predicted member-support behavior involving association public relations. Richard G. Ebel, M.A., Northern Illinois University.

114 A case study of communication messages in a natural resource management controversy. Gail Gawenda, M.S., University of Wisconsin.

126 A readership study assessing the value of internal and external publications received by credit union managers in Texas. Marilyn Haisten, M.A., North Texas State University.

129 Public relations and organizational effectiveness: an open systems approach. Christopher J. Hardwick, M.A., University of Maryland.

132 Factors that influence college basketball game coverage. John Harwick, M.S., West Virginia University.

140 Professional orientation of hospital public relations directors. Man-Li Theresa Hu, M.A., University of Georgia.

147 The professional orientation of public relations practitioners in South Carolina. Sarah Leonard Jernigan, M.A., University of South Carolina.

173 Editors' and news directors' opinions of publicity releases received by Wyoming newspapers and radio stations. John L. Maki, M.A., University of Wyoming.

187 Case studies of organizational management and public relations practices. Elizabeth C. Nanni, M.A., University of Maryland.

204 Image problems affecting the recruiting of Vietnam veterans by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States of America. Raymond N. Price, M.A., Central Missouri State University.

205 An examination of the public's perceptions of professionalism within public relations and among public relations practitioners. Susan P. Price, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

Abstract
Number

227 Public relations personnel and professionalism: a self-image survey of PRSA members. Mary Lou Sharkey, M.S., San Jose State University.

228 Multinational enterprises and public relations: a study of the Bauxite/Alumina companies in Jamaica. Audley Fitz-Albert Shaw, M.A., Northern Illinois University.

235 An analysis of public information programs at Saylorville and Red Rock reservoirs: a case study. Denise Maurine Sofranko, M.S., Iowa State University.

241 Profile of a sports information director: an examination of the working relationship among southeastern conference SID's and basketball coaches and the editors who cover them. Kerry Tharp, M.S., University of Tennessee.

249 An examination of organizational and funding alternatives for an emergency ambulance system. John Roy Turner, M.S., West Virginia University.

267 Broadcast promotion: a profile of the St. Louis television market. Cecelia Marie Youhouse, M.A., Central Missouri State University.

See also Abstracts 63, 87, 130, 166, 198, 232, 256

RADIO, TELEVISION & FILMS

Abstract
Number

14 Competencies for initial positions in broadcast journalism as perceived by radio and television news directors and college broadcast educators. Laurence J. Jankowski, Ed.D., University of Toledo.

37 Relationships between the American motion picture industry and banking institutions. Janet Marie Wasko, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

43 Adolescent film production: a case study involving participant observation and multidimensional scaling. Bob Aristarco, M.A., Temple University.

45 Comparison of subscribers' and non-subscribers' opinions toward commercial messages. Shelley G. August, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

49 Perceptions of corporate management, public television viewers, and development directors regarding the corporate underwriting of programming distributed by the public broadcasting service. Eugene S. Baierschmidt, M.S., University of Utah.

Abstract
Number

52 Using group interviews to assess adolescents' perceptions of television's efficacy in helping adolescents solve problems. Leslie M. Bates, M.A., University of South Carolina.

56 Standard broadcast station KRLA: a case study. Donald C. Beem, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

58 Typecasting: a study of the directors of televised science fiction. Frank P. Bello, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

64 Preservation criteria for the nitrate motion picture. Donald Lewis Bolen, Jr., M.A., University of Georgia.

65 Equal employment opportunity at San Antonio, Texas, television stations. Mariann Boos, M.A., University of Texas.

76 The effect of visualization on recall of television news stories. Roy Cadwell, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

77 Questioning rationales for government regulation of broadcast program content. Linwood Lee Callihan, M.A., University of Georgia.

78 An investigation of differing approaches to secondary school consolidation. Jeffrey Brian Carpenter, M.S., West Virginia University.

95 Information retrieval systems: existing environment and determinants of potential market. Pamela Jane Dorge, M.A., University of Georgia.

106 The broadcast coverage of the Korean War. Benson P. Fraser, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

120 An agricultural television series for Florida public television. Stephen D. Gomez, M.A., University of Florida.

125 The impact of community ascertainment: an analysis of television station ascertainment reports to the F.C.C. Mark C. Hafer, M.A., University of Georgia.

134 Why do they listen to news on the radio, anyway? A uses and gratifications approach to understanding the radio news audience. Donald Paul Hein, M.S., University of Oregon.

141 A comparison of United States network television news coverage of sub-Sahara Africa before and after the 1975-76 Angola conflict. Fred O. Ilegbodu, M.A., North Texas State University.

145 Analysis of interview performance techniques as applied to a television public affairs program. Reginald D. Jarrell, M.S., Iowa State University.

155 The wired retired: community television in a golden age village. Diane R. Klempner, M.A., University of Florida.

Abstract
Number

158 Radio ratings . . . path to monopoly or starvation? James Robert Kropp, M.A., University of Florida.

161 A functional approach to broadcast messages on drinking and driving. Steven J. Larson, M.A., University of Nebraska.

188 The sports antiblackout law of 1973: a case study of government intervention into professional sports broadcasting practices. Rodney A. Nelson, M.A., Kansas State University.

190 A comparison of male and female recipients of televised violence. Alice Newman-Bennett, M.A., Central Missouri State University.

192 A survey of how blacks are portrayed on television today: March 1980. Charmaine O. Niles, M.S., San Jose State University.

208 A symbolic interactionist approach to television socialization. Susanne J. Proudlove, M.A., University of Florida.

211 The radio station manager's posture toward the radio/tv graduate in the midwest: a rating of performance and importance of selected attributes. David Earl Reese, M.A., Kansas State University.

224 Will the real America please stand up and be filmed: a study of the perceptions formed by foreign students, from American movies, of attitudes in America. Elizabeth Sardar, M.A., University of Georgia.

230 Television soap operas and traditional ethics: a content analysis. Shelley J. Siniawsky, M.A., University of Florida.

232 Organizational television: a video tape project for Knoxville's community development corporation. Ronald P. Skenes, Jr., M.S., University of Tennessee.

268 Attitudes of radio and television news directors toward "Happy Talk." Audrey Zeibert, M.A., University of Maryland.

See also Abstracts 3, 5, 24, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, 47, 53, 55, 70, 74, 84, 90, 102, 103, 116, 151, 152, 196, 203, 217, 226, 231, 244, 250, 257, 263, 267

RESEARCH METHODS

Abstract
Number

100 Mail questionnaire return bias in a magazine readership study. Charles Gilbert Evenson, M.S., Iowa State University.

105 Development of a survey instrument for comparing perceptions of communication in doctor-patient relationships. Linda Frace, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

See also Abstracts 52, 59, 62, 64, 70, 87, 89, 112, 128, 129, 145, 164, 166, 251

SPECIAL MINORITIES

Abstract
Number

269 Employment and retention of black journalists by Michigan daily newspapers. Willis Arthur Selden, M.A., Michigan State University.

47 Family socialization patterns of working mothers related to television use and political orientation. Nancy L. Backas, M.S., University of Wisconsin.

48 Press coverage of native American affairs focusing on four Montana and Wyoming newspapers. Beverley B. Badhorse, M.A., University of Wyoming.

83 A study of communications settings and language preference of Hispanic persons in east Los Angeles. Deborah J. Chism, M.A., California State University-Fullerton.

84 Prime-time treatment of couple love among African-Americans: a study of network television programming. David E. Clarke, M.A., University of Wisconsin.

90 The echo of social sexism in television network news. Marie-France Delobel, M.A., University of South Carolina.

104 The Tundra Times: Alaska native advocate, 1962-1976. Shirley E. Fogarino, M.A., University of Maryland.

137 Mexican-Americans in the press: coverage of the Torres case in the Houston Chronicle and Post. Juan Emilio Herrera, M.A., University of Texas.

177 Some effects of sex-role socialization on women entering journalism careers. Katherine Carlton McAdams, M.A., University of North Carolina.

196 Iowa State University students' response to black television programs. Patricia Ann Owens, M.S., Iowa State University.

218 Advertising and women's changing work roles. Linda Robinson Rutz, M.A., University of Nebraska.

234 An attitude profile on the Indiana daily newspaperwoman. Linda Lazier Smith, M.A., Ball State University.

244 Who are the women sports broadcasters in the top fifty television markets in the United States? Deborah Nan Trueman, M.A., University of Georgia.

247 An analysis of the portrayal of black women in selected feature stories in white feminist and black magazines: 1972, 1975 and 1978. Cynthia Ann Turner, M.A., University of Georgia.

See also Abstracts 18, 21, 34, 43, 65, 75, 85, 146, 149, 154, 155, 178, 180, 190, 192, 208, 212, 242, 246

TYPOGRAPHY & GRAPHIC ARTS

Abstract Number

133 The effects of typographic and color variations on recall of information in running text matter. Charlotte R. Hatfield, M.A., University of Texas.

199 Copyright protection of graphic elements: a national study of publications practices. Vincent Michael Pellegrino, M.A., University of Florida.

206 Vogue 1929-1942: a graphic profile. Marcia R. Prior-Miller, M.A., University of Missouri.

260 The impact of headlines on personal perceptions of sensationalism: an exploratory study. Valerie Jean Whitney, M.A., University of Maryland.

See also Abstracts 60, 62, 159, 165, 189, 219

VISUAL COMMUNICATIONS

Abstract Number

4 Perspectives and color terminology: the effects of looking at the subject of colors and color names from different perspectives. Julian Eugene Boggess, III, Ph.D., University of Illinois.

36 Communication as drama: the dramaturgical idea in the work of Kenneth Burke, Hugh Duncan and Erving Goffman. Taline D. Voskeritchian, Ph.D., University of Iowa.

55 Young male adult offender's responses to film violence containing high and low pain cues presented in color and black and white. Lois Beck, M.A., Temple University.

103 An analysis of response differences to identical visual content viewed on film or video. Marjorie Fish, M.A., California State University-Fresno.

162 Motivational factors of picture perception. Mary Frances Laurent, M.A., University of Florida.

169 The influence of verbal coding on pictorial recognition. John F. Long, M.A., University of Utah.

189 Visual communication in print. Gretchen Kerry Nesbit, M.A., University of North Carolina.

See also Abstracts 43, 62, 64, 75, 82, 95, 133, 159, 163, 179, 199, 223, 224, 226